THINGS ARE STIRING IN MUSICAL CIRCLES AT THE UNIVERSITY THESE DAYS

Conservatorium Concert was Held Last Night and Undergraduate Orchestra will Hold Another One Shortly

MELODIOUS MUSIC IS RENDERED BY CONSERVATORY PUPILS

Appreciative Audience Entertained at the R.V.C. Last Night

The Conservatorium of Music gave an Orchestral Concert last evening at the Royal Victoria College to a large and appreciative audience.

The Orchestra gave a splendid, spirited interpretation of Euryanthe, Weber's delightful and melodious overture. The Symphony in D by Haydn consisting of four movements were most exacting and require great variety in style and technique. Special mention must be made of the third movement, graceful and dainty playing of the Minuet and Trio. In the Rondo from Concerto No 1, Op. 15, by Beethoven for Piano-forte and Orchestra, Miss A. Mackenzie played in finished style with beautiful expression, and this was undoubtedly the best number on the programme. In the final orchestral number Cosse Noisette Suite by Tchaikowsky the different numbers of which are (a) Overture miniature (b) Danse Arabe (c) Danse de la Fee Dragee (d) Danse Russe Trepak, and most descriptive giving the rhythm of the Russians.

Miss La Lumiere is to be complimented on clever manner and spirit she showed in her playing of Moszkowski's Caprice Espagnol which demands great technique. Miss E. L. Rollins has a sympathetic voice of beautiful quality, and showed her splendid control in her singing of O. ma lyre immortelle (Sappho Farewell) Gnuod.

The Concerto No. 9 (1st part) Debierot for violin, was played by Mr. Henry Casey who shewed splendid attack. He is to be commended on his legato playing as well as his good tone. Miss A. Schmidt played Nocturne, solo for violin and orchestra in her usual pleasing style and showed beautiful blending and balance of tone.

Queens—Queens University Hockey Team, after a three weeks' rest, defeated Brockville 5-4, in the second period the score stood 3-1 in favor of Brockville.

ORCHESTRA CONCERT PROMISES TO BE HOWLING SUCCESS

Announcement of the Programme Should Awaken Much Interest

A grand concert is to be given by the Undergraduates Orchestra in the Royal Victoria College on Wednesday March 12th, at 8:15. The Orchestra will be assisted by Miss Beatrice Fraser, Montreal's popular contralto. The McGill Mandolin Club will also contribute two numbers.

The programme in full has been announced and will be as follows:

- PART I.
Intro.—'Come Fill Your Glasses Up,'
1. Overture—Light Cavalry. Suppe Orchestra.
2. String Quartette—Selected. — Messrs A. Graffey, E. Luney, J. O'Regan, Yves Lamontagne.
3. Vocal Solo—My Ship; A. Barrett; Miss Beatrice Fraser.
4. Selection—Humoreske; D'vorak; Orchestra.
5. Selection; McGill Mandolin Club
6. Selection—Prince of Pilsen, Lunders.

- PART II
1. Overture—Morning, Noon, and Night in Vienna; Suppe (by request) Orchestra.
2. Selection; McGill Mandolin club.
3. Selections (a) Sextette from Lucia D'Ammermon; Donizetti; (b) Misere from Il Tronatore; Verdi with cornet and trombone duet, orchestra.
4. Vocal Solo (a) The Leones and the Wind; Froneo Leonil. (b) The first of June, Herbert Oliver; Miss Beatrice Fraser.
5. Nonet—Selection from Wm Tell.
6. March—King Cotton; Sousa. God Save the King.

The conductor, Mr. Lennie, is particularly pleased with the finished manner in which the orchestra is playing. Each practice so far has merited more and more praise. The programme, as printed above, ought to insure a capacity house on the night of the twelfth.

Tickets are on sale at 50c at the Union today.

On Saturday afternoon the Orchestra is proceeding to Macdonald College to give a concert that evening.

NOTICE OF AMENDMENT TO THE COUNCILS CONSTITUTION

Suggests Allowing Editor of Daily to Attend Meetings and Report Same Although Not a Member of Council

Notice of an amendment to the constitution of the Student's Society was handed in on Tuesday to the secretary. The amendment is to the effect that the Editor-in-Chief of the Daily is to be allowed to attend and report at his discretion all meetings of the Council in future.

The proposers of the amendment maintain that if this is made constitutional, both the Students and the Council will benefit thereby, as it will bring the latter body into closer touch with undergraduate sentiment.

They consider that there should be some reporter present at Council meetings and that the man best fitted for the work is the editor of the paper. Members of the Council have expressed themselves in opposition to this amendment on the grounds that it is inadvisable that the undergraduates should know what is going on at the meetings, as it might occasion trouble. In addition to this the opponents of the amendment maintain that the Council are in the position of a board of directors with students as shareholders, and that shareholders do not know what goes on at directors' meetings.

The proposers, however, maintain that it is advisable that the editor be permitted to publish what he sees fit and that the students have every right to this news. They speak of the Alma Mater Society at Queen's University, a body whose meetings are open to every student at Queens and which fulfills the same functions there as the Student's Council at McGill. The plan is found perfectly satisfactory by the undergraduates of the Kingston University.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

Oxford—Oxford defeated Cambridge in a lacrosse match by the score of 14 to 5. Four Canadians were conspicuous on the Oxford team; H. C. Homes, of McGill; J. J. Pearse, of McGill; J. T. Horson, of Manitoba, and E. R. Sidall, of Manitoba.

According to a resolution recently adopted by the Association of American Colleges, all students in colleges belonging to the association will be required to take a five-year course in place of the four years now required.

McGill Daily

Editorial

Now that nominations for the Presidency of the Student's Council are being considered, it is well to review some of the principal qualifications which should be possessed by candidates for this most important post.

From the nature of the work which the Council is called upon to perform, business and financial ability are among the principal requisites in the President.

Popularity and social ability are also essential in a successful candidate, since on them depend the success of the Social Events, such as the Alma Mater Dance.

Other qualifications, though important are subordinate to these. It is necessary to weigh very carefully the merits of the respective candidates so that the man best fitted for the post may be elected. The many problems which face the Undergraduate Body for next year, demand a particularly strong Council, and this can only be obtained with a President who possesses the above qualifications to a very marked degree.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION IN ARTS TAKES ON NOVEL ASPECT

Candidates May Divide on Question of Arts Banquet

Unprecedented interest has been aroused in the coming elections for president of the Arts Undergraduate Society by the announcement made by Mr. E. H. Scott, one of the candidates, that he was in favor of a "wet" Arts Dinner. Coming as it does after three years of hot discussion on this much-debated question, his announcement is of particular interest; specially as heretofore candidates for this office have seldom, if ever, committed themselves on the issue. Every year when the question of a "wet" or "dry" dinner comes up for decision, a bitter debate takes place, and undergraduates of the faculty range themselves on either side; a hot controversy ensuing. For the past three years the "dry" advocates have been returned winners, sometimes on very close decisions, and as a consequence supporters of a "wet" function usually stay away from the annual repast. However, it is rumored in certain quarters that the "moist" element intend to return to the attack, and with a view to strengthening their position in the faculty, have nominated Mr. Scott for the presidency. Whether or not there is any truth in this would be difficult to ascertain, but it is a well-known fact that Mr. Scott, in his views on the dinner question believes in the right of the individual to decide whether or not he shall take a drink.

It is not unlikely, in view of the lively interest which has always manifested itself in this question, that the other candidates for the office will take a definite stand in the matter. If this proves to be the case the situation would be unique in the history of the undergraduate societies and should be productive of one of the most interesting and closely contested elections ever held at McGill.

PRESIDENT OF CANADIAN CLUB OFFERS SUGGESTIONS

The Following Letter Throws Light on Affairs of Club

March 5th, 1913.
 Editor of the McGill Daily:

Dear Sir: With your kind permission I should like to make a brief comment on an editorial appearing in the Daily, re the McGill Canadian Club. I quite agree with the opinion expressed that the organization under discussion is one of the most important ones at McGill and one which deserves the best attention of every student, more especially those who were elected to office in this Club.

Before proceeding to discuss the reforms which are apparently needed, I must point out that the failure which has characterized the meetings of the Canadian Club this season, has not in any way been due to the present executive. The secretary, Mr. John Bieler, has certainly done everything possible to make the organization what it should be to the students. He has been in constant touch with the secretary of the Montreal organization and has endeavored through him to get into touch with available men who would have been of interest to McGill students. As President, I have made every effort to justify my selection to such an important office, and honestly endeavored to make this Club of real value. If we have failed, it has not been through lack of interest and zeal on our part.

In regard to any necessary reforms in the organization of the McGill Canadian Club, I should like to make a suggestion. The present offices of the executive should be continued but I believe it would be advisable to have the President nominated in writing signed by ten members and then elected, along with other officers, at a general meeting held not later than the third week in March. I also believe it advisable to add to the present executive a representative from each faculty. I hardly think this would give rise to numbers too numerous to be effective, and it would, without doubt, stimulate a greater interest in the meetings.

In the meantime, it is to be hoped that Monday's meeting, which will take the nature of an illustrated lecture, by Mr. Clergue, will be well attended, and that a greater interest will be manifested by the students in the future plans of the McGill Canadian Club. The Club should be of practical importance to all and it must be a success.

Thanking you for space,
 I remain yours very truly,
 W. ALLEN WALSH.

R. V. C.

The Y. W. C. A. was addressed on Wednesday afternoon in the common room by Mrs. Reid, a former women graduate of McGill. Mrs. Reid described the beginnings of a Y. W. C. A. in this College. She then described her work as a missionary in West Africa telling how missionary work had made her life fuller and richer.

Mrs. Reid put forward a plea that missionary work should have a place in the life of every student, and she made an appeal for special workers.

The meeting was then addressed by Miss Bowman, a returned teacher from the mission schools in Japan. Miss Bowman is a former R. V. C. student, and in a most interesting talk, told of the need of educated women in missionary work.

MCGILL BASKETBALLERS MEET Y.M.C.A. TEAM TO-NIGHT

In Exhibition Game at Drummond St. Gym.

Tonight in the Y.M.C.A. gym on Drummond Street, the Red and White quintette will meet the Central Y.M.
C.A. team in an exhibition game.

Neither teams have been playing much since the close of their league schedule, but all the men have kept pretty well in condition.

The game ought to be a pretty good one, as the last clash these teams had was quite indecisive.

Play will start promptly at 8:30 and the McGill team will be picked from the following men: Duffield, Kennedy, Baldwin, Smith, Williscroft, Busby, Upham and Calder.

THE DATES ANNOUNCED FOR THE COMING COMPETITION

Takes Place on the 19th and 22nd of the Month

The Wicksteed gymnastic competitions will be held on two days this month, Wednesday the 19th, and Saturday, the 22nd. The competitors in each division will have some part of their trials on Wednesday, while the finals will be held on Saturday. The competition will take place in the M.A.A.A. gymnasium.

A keen interest is being taken this year in the competitions for the various trophies and it is expected that the entry list will be larger than usual. A number of men have already entered and still more have signified their intention of soon doing so.

Additional interest is lent to the competition by the fact that the Freshmen, through the kindness of Dr. Harvey, are now able to take part and thus the competitions are open to every student at McGill University.

YEAR OF MEDICINE '17 HAS NOW ELECTED A CLASS BABY

Present Loving Cup to Son and Heir of Members of Class

An interesting incident took place recently when the Class of Medicine
'17 elected a class baby and additional interest attaches to the incident in view of the fact that the infant thus honored is the son of Mr. A. S.
Lamb, the popular gymnasium instructor at McGill.

It will be remembered that Mr.
Lamb was appointed this year to succeed Mr. Jacob, who has gone to Pennsylvania. Mr. Lamb entered as a freshman in Medicine in the fall and when a son was born to him his classmates unanimously elected the boy to fill the position of class baby.

Accordingly, a suitable loving cup was secured and presented to the baby who will from henceforward be a member of the freshman year with all rights and prerogatives appertain-ing thereto.

The Daily extends its sincere good wishes and congratulations to Mr.
and Mrs. Lamb.

FIRST SEMI-FINAL GAME IN THE BILLIARD TOURNAMENT

Quiller Graham Defeats Morris in Good Exhibition

In the first game in the semi-finals for the billiard championship, Graham handicap 25, won from Morris, 55, by a score of 250-225.

The game was a close one from the start. Morris, however, kept the lead until the 178 mark. Graham made a run of 11 here, and kept the lead till the end of the game.

The finish was very exciting. The score stood at 249-219 and Morris brought the score up to 249-225.

Both men played splendid games, but toward the end Morris played a somewhat weaker game, while Graham played remarkably well.

Graham will play the winner of the Hull (scratch) and Stone (55) game, which also promises to be exciting.
It will probably be played tonight.

Princeton has begun active preparations for the 1913 football campaign. Last week thirty-five men reported for winter practice in the gymnasium.

ANXIETY IS EXPRESSED ABOUT COUNCIL NOMINATIONS

Up to Last Night there were No Candidates in the Field

Yesterday afternoon Mr. L. H.
Roberts made a definite statement to the Daily to the effect that he had absolutely decided not to run for the presidency of the Council, and that any rumors to the contrary were entirely unfounded. Mr. Dixon also said the same thing with regard to statements about the probability of his being a candidate, and, as Mr.
Huggessen, who was previously spoken of as a candidate, definitely announced last week that he had no intention of running for the office.

There was up till last night, no nomination in for the office.

It was said that Mr. H. P. Stanley of Science '14, and Mr. Duggan of the same year, were possible candidates, but as far as the Daily could find out, these gentlemen had not definitely made up their minds about the matter.

Considerable misgiving is felt by many undergraduates over the fact that so many men are refusing to consider the idea of running for the Council. This is undoubtedly an undesirable state of affairs, but the next few days may see a change for the better. It would be a ridiculous state of affairs if no one was nominated before Saturday, as that is the last day that nominations will be received. A Council without a president would be a somewhat ridiculous organization.

REMINISCENCES OF SIR HENRY IRVING RELATED BY MISS FEALY

Commends Schools for Training in Dramatic Art

"You people seem to be enjoying your chat so thoroughly that it is a pity to disturb you," said Miss Fealy, by way of introduction to the Daily reporters who, comfortable ensconced in the easy chairs of the Windsor tea-room, were so deeply engrossed in a heated argument as to just how many martinis a man should consume before attending the Arts dinner, in order to fully appreciate its feast of reason and flow of soul, that they had not noticed her entrance.

Instantaneously and simultaneously two startled reporters sprang to their feet and murmuring vague and platitudinous apologies, proffered two separate and individual chairs. Miss Fealy, however, showing no partiality, smiled pleasantly, declined both and seated herself on the divan from which point of vantage she surveyed her interlocutors. Having decided that they were harmless and observing their reluctance to be the first to fire shot in the fusillade of question and answer, she inquired if they had seen the play the evening before and how they liked it. Their enthusiastic response in the affirmative and the presentation of a copy of the Daily, which was accepted with gracious thanks and a few tactful compliments (perfectly justified) on the zeal and enterprise of a college in publishing a daily of such exceptional merit as it appeared to be, placed the three on a basis of mutual appreciation and complacency.

To a query concerning her beliefs in Christian Science and faith healing, Miss Fealy replied "With regard to these matters I prefer to say, I do not know rather than that I do not believe. There is so much evidence for and against that I would consider it foolish to pass judgment, until I had sifted and tested all the evidence at hand. Can't we talk about something else though, something of more interest?"

The twain having consulted among themselves and brought in a report unanimously in favor of the suggestion, the conversation was shifted to the perfectly neutral ground of Shakespearean drama.

"Shakespearean roles," said Miss Fealy, "are like a major garment, which no matter how often worn and cast aside, always retains its style, freshness of hue and lustre, and lies ready at hand to be donned when need and occasion arise. I would like to play always in Shakespeare, but public taste for him waxes and wanes and one cannot always choose. "No, I cannot say that I do prefer any particular role to the others. It depends upon the humor I am in. If I am feeling especially independent and buoyant of spirits, I love to play Portia. If I am tired then something lighter, such as Aphelia, is more acceptable. I always like the role of Viola, though. There is a naive simplicity and gentle steadfastness about the character which strongly attracts me."

Any reminiscences of Sir Henry Irving? Well, you know I was with him only two years, succeeding to Miss Ellen Terry, and my recollection of him is that of a grand and noble structure crumbling and tottering into ruin. He should never have played those last two years; he was not physically fit for it. Always, however, he was gentle and gracious in his manner with an inexhaustible fund of stories; a penetrating wit and a keen sense of humor.

Once, however, we were playing 'Hamlet' in Dundee, Scotland, somehow or other the cup which was to be used in the last scene had become mislaid and a substitute was found in an earthenware marmalade jar. Unfortunately the label had not been removed, and, to the consternation of the players, the audience betrayed a tendency to giggle just when the tragic influence of the scene should have been strongest. Sir Henry was considerably annoyed over the incident, and in no wise was appeased by the action of a member of the firm of manufacturers who accosted him after the play and thanked him for the advertisement given to their product.

One very pathetic, though startling incident occurred very shortly before his collapse. We were giving a one-act play, called 'Waterloo.' Sir Henry, in the role of the old corporal, was seated before the fire, supposedly asleep. I was standing directly behind his chair with one hand on the back of it. The third person of the scene, a young sergeant, asked if the old man was my father, and on my replying, Yes, said that he seemed not long for this world. At these words, Sir Henry half raised his head and muttered to himself, 'the fellow's right, the fellow's right!' I was terribly startled and upset, but finished the scene somehow or other in a series of cold chills. For several performances when it came to this point in the dialogue, Sir Henry would mutter thus to himself. One evening I could stand the strain no longer, and, as he began to mutter, grabbed him by the shoulder. He started, seemed to realize that he was endangering the whole scene and stopped abruptly. He never repeated it.

Towards the last he became very feeble, and it was only his indomitable will that enabled him to hold out after his physical strength had gone.

Asked as to whether or not she considered dramatic schools feasible and successful, Miss Fealy replied:—"Most assuredly I do. My mother has conducted a school for dramatic instruction in Denver, Col., for years and I could name you half a dozen to a dozen who since graduation, have

QUEENS UNDERGRADS. SEEK HELP FROM GOVERNMENT

Circulars Asking Graduates to Arouse Public Interest

Queens University has sent out circulars to all its graduates in Ottawa to interest them in the support of the College. The number of graduates of the Kingston University, in the capital is large and these are requested to spread abroad all the facts of importance bearing upon the University and to interest their friends in the College. The authorities at Queens believe that the more people are familiar with the great benefits and work of the College, the more they will be ready to sanction any help which the Government may render to the institution.

The circular, after stating that a deputation which went to Toronto to wait upon the Provincial Cabinet, was treated in a most courteous manner, states among other things: "It is desirable that the members of the Legislature of Ontario should be familiar with the claims of the University for Provincial assistance."

Many reasons are stated why this help should be granted, among which are the facts that the assistance formerly given by the Government has been withdrawn, that the connection of the Government aid for educational purposes is not a fair policy, and finally that Queens is in real need of Government assistance.

achieved remarkable success on the stage.

It is true that experience is the best teacher, but much experience can be obtained under conditions less trying than those of the stage. I consider that the history of drama, the study of modern dramatists and stage-craft should be taken up, elocution should be taught, and all the public reading, recitation and work in amateur theatricals, possible, should be indulged in. To learn to speak and move naturally and easily and to be absolutely free from self-consciousness—these are the beginnings of wisdom for an actor."

The arrival of friends to summon Miss Fealy to luncheon, brought the interview to a conclusion. With hypocritical apologies for having, in the intensity of their interest, detained her for nearly an hour, the interviewers exivertunt, i.e., adjourned to the "his and."

KING COOK CELEBRATION TAKES PLACE AT THE UNION TO-NIGHT

Most Profound Mystery Enshrouds Plans of Committee—Most Successful Event Anticipated

The Daily reporter who was commissioned yesterday to find out particulars with regard to tonight's King Cook Celebration, left the precincts of the Medical Building quite as empty handed as he had come. A writing pad was in his overcoat pocket, but its leaves were blank; a newly sharpened pencil in his vest; but it had not been used. There is so great an air of mystery surrounding all the doings of the committee in charge that it is believed that they have 'something good up their sleeves.' It has been the custom in other years for the committee to advertise the nature of the ceremonies and the titles to be presented to the King; this year's committee, however, has established a precedent in not making known to the students any of the pranks to be pulled off. We are only told that there is to be a full course dinner instead of the light lunch of previous years; this feature alone should be sufficient inducement to call out every member of Med. '16 and '17 to join the festive board.

Mr. L. J. Hartman, the president of Med. '16, was visited during the day by the reporter. "There is nothing that I can say about the Cook Celebration," he said, "except that considerable time and expense have been utilized in making this year's affair just a little bit better than any other similar event. The committee has adopted a policy of secrecy, and even the class executive has not been informed of any of their plans. However, the remarks of the committee men and the confidence we as a class place in them, assure us that no one will be disappointed. Judging from the rate at which tickets are selling, we should see every member of both years at the Union on Thursday night."

Working in research laboratory at Queens University, J. A. McRae was badly burned in an explosion of a hitherto unknown explosive compound. He was using a well-known test for acetone in which silver nitrate, ammonia, and sodium hydrate were used. The compound in the breaker exploded with a report which shook the building.
